ABOUT KIDS' COUNTRY

Kids' Country (aka San Ramon Valley School Age Child Care Alliance) was founded in 1985 to serve children and families in the San Ramon Valley. Kids' Country offers quality before-school, after-school, enrichment, and summer camp child care programs for nearly 2000 children ages 4 to 12 at 15 public school sites. With a focus on child development, socialization, and creativity, Kids' Country delights children and their parents with our cutting-edge programming in STEM and the Arts. We are the only accredited school-age childcare provider in the East Bay.

For Kids' Country's 180+ staff, it's all about the kids. Research indicates that regular attendance in quality after-school programs can yield a range of positive developmental outcomes for school-age children. Our after-school enrichment programs enhance children's academic achievement, proving to be a vital educational element for our families and communities. These children demonstrate increased interest and ability in reading, improved school attendance, increased engagement in school, reduced dropout rate, and show higher aspirations for the future, including intention to complete high school and go to college. While developing new skills and interests, children turn in more and higher quality homework and can spend more time on task. In addition, research is also showing that quality after-school programs support a child's social-emotional development in self-awareness and management, responsible decision-making and relationship skills. Children also have an opportunity to grow their non-cognitive skills such as grit, self-control and a growth mindset. Kids' Country develops the whole child by supporting a child's natural curiosity and love of learning in a safe and inspired environment where they can discover their passions and achieve great things.
